Robinson Set To Introduce Rezoning Measure Tonight

Councilman Stresses 'Decision' Is Needed; 'Three-Fourths Vote' Required For Passage

Councilman John Robinson said today he will introduce an ordinance in favor of the plan to rezone a residential area immediately north of Hargus Creek and east of N. Court St.

The city planning and zoning commission, by a 7-0 vote, has already issued a recommendation against the rezoning request, filed by nine property owners. The measure which Robinson said he will sponsor at city council's regular meeting Tuesday night will thus represent a move to over-ride the action of the planning body.

The area north of the creek is sought as a site for a shopping center. Property owners are asking that it be rezoned to commercial status to make this possible.

At its last meeting, council placed the report of the planning body "on file," despite the vigorous objections of Attorney Kenneth Robbins, representing two property owners. Robbins won a compromise with the lawmakers, however, when they agreed to have a committee rule on whether council is obliged by law to "affirm or reject" the planning body's recommendation.

THE QUESTION was turned over to council's laws and claims committee, headed by Councilman Richard Penn. After conferring with the two other committee members, Councilmen Ray Cook and Boyd Horn, Penn said his group will report that no such action by council is necessary unless an ordinance is introduced.

It was in view of this situation that Robinson decided to sponsor an ordinance. However, he emphasized that he is introducing the measure "only for the sake of getting a clear-cut decision on this question, and to be fair to all concerned."

Robinson pointed out that, after the ordinance is placed before council, he may change his mind and oppose it in final voting.

Slayer Sits Impassively During Trial

CHARDON (AP)—Burley Leo Cavey looked on impassively in a courtroom yesterday as the state showed grisly color slides of the beaten body of an old man he admitted he killed.

Wearing slacks and a yellow sport shirt, the 43-year-old welder was seated directly behind the projector which shone the slides on a screen in glaring color. When a reporter asked him during a recess what he thought of the use of the slides, Cavey took a drag on a cigarette, shrugged and said, "I guess it's the state's privilege to show them."

The slides were used over strenuous objections of defense attorneys who claimed they might prejudice the jury.

Cavey is on trial on a charge of first degree murder in the slaying of 80-year-old Alva J. Williams, a wealthy mill owner, last May. Four days after the slaying Cavey led officers to the body, which was lying under a pile of rocks. He admitted in a signed statement that he killed Williams, but pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

The state plans to prove with circumstantial evidence that Cavey also robbed Williams of a "substantial" amount of money after beating him to death with a pair of pliers in an argument over the price of a bushel of coal. Cavey denies robbery was involved.

Mississippi Opening Trial In Slaying Of Negro Boy, 14

SUMNER, Miss. (AP)—The state of Mississippi sets out today to prove that two white men killed a 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy who allegedly made offensive remarks and whistled at a white woman.

The evidence appeared to be heavily circumstantial—so much so the state doesn't plan to ask the death penalty.

Only two more jurors must be picked before the prosecution unveils its case against Roy Bryant, 24, and his half-brother, 36-year-old J. W. Milam.

State and defense attorneys, operating in the shirt-sleeve heat of a crowded courtroom, agreed yesterday on 10 jurors for the all-male, all-white jury.

In questioning, prospective jurors were asked if race would influence their verdict. Only one man said it might. Circuit Judge Curtis Swango quickly disqualified him.

The defendants are accused of killing Emmett Louis Till, who allegedly whistled at Mrs. Bryant after offensive remarks.

will tell council Tuesday that a three-fourths vote will be necessary to pass the ordinance mentioned by Robinson.

Penn said it is not accurate to say that council declined "to consider" the rezoning request at its last meeting.

His point was that, if council preferred only to place the commission's report "on file"—and if no ordinance is introduced in favor of rezoning—"the public can then rightly feel that council has affirmed the ruling of the planning commission."

ROBBINS insisted, nevertheless, that council was sidestepping its responsibility in merely placing the commission report "on file." A continuation of the argument on technical points, even with an ordinance submitted, appeared certain Tuesday night.

Attorney William Ammer is serving as top spokesman for property owners who oppose the rezoning move. He has warned that, if council would "reconsider this whole thing" and finally override the planning body, "the zoning ordinance in Circleville will mean nothing."

September Heat Wave Cut Short

CHICAGO (AP)—The September heat wave which scorched the Midwest for a week appeared broken today with a flow of cool air from the north and showers.

The cool air spread southeastward across the Midwest and Great Lakes region. Temperatures, which hit the 90s again yesterday in many cities, dropped to around normal levels.

Light showers fell in parts of the Midwest and fairly heavy rainfall was reported in sections of the Northern Rockies.

Man Suffocates

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Louis Dominic of Leetonia suffocated yesterday in a bin filled with coke cinders at Midcontinent Coal & Coke Co. A fellow employee said Dominic had been working in the top of the bin and disappeared.

The big mystery is what happened between the time Till was taken from the home of his sharecropper uncle Mose Wright until the time the youth's body was found floating in the muddy Tallahatchie River near here.

The state says Bryant and Milam bludgeoned Till, shot him to death and disposed of the body by weighting it and dropping it in the river. Bryant and Milam say they let the boy go unharmed.

One source close to the case said the state has no witnesses to actual events. Dist. Atty. Gerald Chatham said he would not ask the death penalty "since a substantial part of the state's evidence is circumstantial."

Principal state's witness apparently is Wright, 64-year-old uncle who said three men took his nephew away under protest.

The incident allegedly occurred Aug. 24 in Bryant's country store in Money, a community near Greenwood in Leflore County.

Attendance At Fair Shows Increase

Reid Explains Difference Between Paid Admissions, Total Figures

Estimated total attendance at the 1955 Pickaway County Fair was approximately 1 per cent higher than last year, according to Fair Board Secretary Henry Reid.

However, actual paid attendance showed only a 1.7 per cent increase this year over 1954, Reid explained. He said there is no accurate way of estimating the exact number of people present. Such a total would include passes, plus children who were admitted free.

Total estimated attendance for this year's Fair, according to Reid, was 22,000. Last year, total attendance was estimated at 19,600, he added.

Actual paid attendance this year totalled 14,302, Reid revealed. Paid attendance last year was 14,066, he said, breaking it down as follows, with daytime attendance first and then nighttime:

Wednesday—253, 3,121. Total paid, 3,374 (4,800 total estimated).
Thursday—670, 2,828. Total paid, 3,498 (5,000 total estimated).
Friday—559, 3,116. Total paid, 3,675 (4,800 total estimated).
Saturday—494, 3,025. Total paid, 3,515 (5,000 total estimated).

1955
Wednesday—372, 2,773. Total paid, 3,145 (5,000 total estimated).
Thursday—316, 2,607. Total paid, 2,923 (4,500 total estimated).
Friday—903, 4,062. Total paid, 4,359 (5,000 total estimated).
Saturday—467, 2,802. Total paid, 3,269 (4,500 total estimated).

Reid explained that a number of changes accounted for differences in comparable days this year as against last:

1. LAST YEAR, the tractor pull was held on Thursday. This year, it was on Wednesday.
2. A special Youth Day was held on Friday of this year, which resulted in the largest crowd ever to attend the fair here in a single day.
3. The 4-H and FFA livestock sale was held on Saturday.

Ohio Narcotic Clinic Plan Labeled Flop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio cities that once allowed drug addicts to buy narcotics legally in treatment clinics found the experiment a complete failure, narcotics bureau records disclosed today.

The papers were released in connection with hearings currently being held in New York City by a Senate Narcotic Subcommittee headed by Sen. Daniel (D-Tex.). The subcommittee is investigating all aspects of the narcotics problem, including the possibility of permitting addicts to receive treatments and buy dope legally in clinics to eliminate the criminals who sell it.

These clinics were set up in 44 American cities in the early 1920s, and were closed by the end of 1925. The four Ohio cities were Cleveland, Youngstown, Columbus and Cincinnati.

The head of the Cleveland clinic, Dr. G. E. Webster, found that the experiment merely aggravated the problem. He estimated that there were from 5,000 to 6,000 addicts there, and that only 80 applied for treatment.

"Some of the addicts in attendance were peddlers and attended the clinic as a blind," said Dr. Webster's report. "Some of the others were supplementing their supply by buying from illicit sources."

night last year. This year, it was on Friday night.

Reid said the unusual thing about the record Friday night crowd lay in the fact that there was a Circleville High School football game that same night. He said he was told there was also a record crowd at the game.

He stressed that when an estimated total attendance figure is given, this includes paid admissions, free passes and children under 12 who were admitted free. Actual paid attendance includes only those who receive tickets at the gates.

Michigan Faces Renewal Of Tax

Ohio Officials Point To Saturday Deadline

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's state officials indicated today Michigan truckers will have to pay Ohio's axle-mile tax again Saturday.

Ohio Reciprocity Board member Robert Moulton, who also is state utilities commission chairman, and Joseph Gill, first assistant state attorney general, said the present reciprocity agreement with Michigan will cease Saturday.

Michigan truckers recently won an Ohio Supreme Court battle which nullified the axle tax as far as out-of-state truckers are concerned. The court said the 1937 reciprocity agreement between Michigan and Ohio applied to the axle tax and therefore the levy could not be collected.

The tax is a mileage levy on trucks with more than two axles using Ohio highways. Ohio subsequently notified 20 states with which it had motor vehicle reciprocity agreements the pact would be cancelled in 30 days unless they were amended to exclude the axle tax.

THREE STATES agreed to the amendments. Ohio gave Michigan, Illinois and West Virginia until Saturday to make their decisions. Pacts with 13 other states were cancelled Sept. 9. The Indiana agreement cannot be voided until Oct. 9.

The Ohio Reciprocity Board met with the Michigan board last Friday but nothing was accomplished on a new agreement. Gill and Moulton said they believe there will be no new agreement by next Saturday.

Under Ohio law, the state can extend exemption from license and utility commission fees on Michigan trucks as long as Michigan doesn't require Ohio trucks to pay similar taxes in that state. The two could operate under a "gentlemen's agreement."

Rep. Dingell, 61, Dies In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. John D. Dingell, 61-year-old Michigan Democrat, died unexpectedly last night at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. His death was the first in the present 84th Congress.

Dingell had represented Detroit's 15th District since he was first elected to Congress in 1932. He had entered Walter Reed Friday night for a checkup on a suspected asthmatic condition.

A son James, said his father apparently died of a heart attack.

Woman's Estate Tops $1 Million

CINCINNATI (AP)—Mrs. William Cooper Procter, a member of the Procter & Gamble soap family, bequeathed about $1,300,000 to the Cincinnati Widows and Old Men's Home, executors for the estate disclosed yesterday.

She died March 19, 1953. An inventory of the estate placed its value at $11,497,817. Her bequest to the Widows and Old Men's Home was the largest among gifts to various organizations and institutions.

Ex-Dictator's Arrest Sought By Rebel Force

Army Junta Holding Peace Confab With Insurgent Leaders

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The fallen dictator, Juan D. Peron, boarded a Paraguayan gunboat here today and received assurances of protection. But the rebels who ousted Peron demanded the boat be intercepted enroute to Paraguay and the ex-president arrested.

Peron spent last night in his presidential palace at Palermo while a group of friends and opponents debated his fate.

This afternoon the Paraguayan ambassador to Argentina disclosed he had gone aboard the gunboat with Peron, and the ex-dictator had received assurances of "protection."

The ambassador, Juan Chavez, said Peron slipped aboard the gunboat with his military aides.

This was about 10 a. m. Soon after 1 p. m. the rebel radios came on the air, with directions to the insurgent navy telling its officers to intercept the Paraguayan gunboat.

The object obviously was to bring Peron back to face charges.

THE TRIP BY gunboat to Asuncion, Paraguay, would take about five days.

The ambassador said he had informed the military junta, now in power in Argentina, that the former president and his aides were taking refuge aboard the Paraguayan craft.

He said Peron had asked him: "Can you give me asylum?" He said he replied: "There is an international law and also an Argentine-Paraguayan agreement which obliges us to grant you asylum."

He was referring to agreements with political refugees—persons who for one reason or another are fleeing from possible arrest for political offenses.

These agreements are frequently invoked in Latin America after revolutions.

A junta of generals took command of the government as a climax to the four-day revolt that overthrew Peron. They quickly announced talks with the rebels.

THE GENERALS also moved rapidly to tighten their control on Buenos Aires after rebel reports (Continued on Page Two)

Daytonian, 33, Goes On Trial

DAYTON (AP)—Hathel Creech, 33-year-old Dayton cabinet-maker, is on trial here for his life.

He is charged with first degree murder in the gunshot slaying of his estranged wife, Delores, 26, last July 9 in a restaurant here. The trial opened yesterday before three judges after Creech waived jury trial.

Logan Wife-Slayer Is Saved From Chair By Gov. Lausche

COLUMBUS, Ohio. (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today commuted the death sentence of Benjamin Meyer, Logan wife slayer, to life imprisonment.

Meyer was sentenced to die by electrocution last Aug. 25, but the governor granted a reprieve to consider his case.

Meyer, 26, fatally shot his wife, Velva, on Feb. 15, 1954, during a quarrel. The couple had five children.

Statute provides that first degree murderers serving a life sentence shall receive a hearing by the Pardon and Parole Commission after a full 20 years in prison. The board can recommend commutation of sentence after a hearing for action by the governor.

The granting of a commutation to second degree murder makes such prisoner eligible for parole consideration.

Commenting on his action in a prepared statement, Lausche said: "Through difficulties and misunderstandings in the home, they had been separated on several occasions. During the last separation he visited her, wanting her to come back; a further misunderstanding occurred at the end of which he took her life through a gun shot."

American Women Freed By Chinese

2 Missionaries Arrive Safely; Only Texan Missing From List

HONG KONG (AP)—The first stage in the repatriation of 41 American civilians from Communist China neared completion today with the release of two American women missionaries after 4½ years' imprisonment.

The women were Miss Sarah Perkins, 63, a native of Tennessee, and Miss Dorothy Middleton, 34, of Cicero, Ill. Miss Perkins is a Presbyterian, Miss Middleton a Lutheran who worked at a leper colony.

Of the 10 Americans the Communist announced would be freed from jail or house arrest, only Dilmus T. Kanady, a cotton dealer from Houston, Tex., remained to come across.

The Reds also have said that 12 other Americans previously denied exit permits were free to leave China and that machinery had been set up to provide the "expeditious" release of 19 others under detention. None of these has arrived yet in the free world.

Wearing summer dresses, both women appeared in good physical and mental condition although tired. Asked how she felt, Miss Perkins replied: "For a woman of 63, I think I look pretty well."

THE WOMEN were arrested separately on sabotage charges at Samkong village, near Linhsien, south China, in February 1951. They were kept in separate rooms in the same buildings—in Samkong, then in Kukong and in a Canton prison—and finally met on Sept. 11 when they were called before a Red council in Canton. They were told then they would be deported.

Miss Perkins said the first time she was called up for questioning, the Communists "told me if I would tell on others, they would treat me lightly, but if not 'we may shoot you or treat you very cruelly.'"

"I replied," she continued, "You may shoot me tomorrow but I will still tell the truth. We are not spies, we are missionaries."

Miss Middleton said she had "signed some papers which I believe were confessions in 1952 or 1953." She said she wrote "some things from my point of view—that I was a Christian and that I was sorry if I had said anything contrary to their belief."

"I probably had done things contrary to their ideas," she continued, "but as a Christian, I would never go back on God." She declined to be more specific, saying she feared to bring down reprisals on Chinese friends.

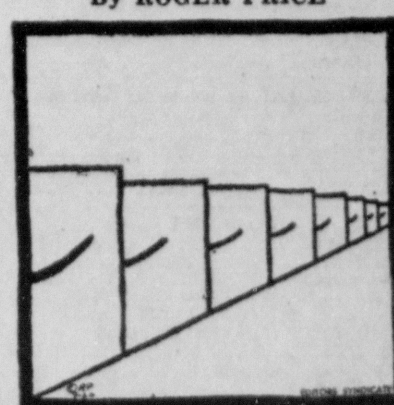

U.S. Postal Deficit Reported Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Postoffice Department ended the 1955 fiscal year $362,700,000 in the red. Releasing its annual financial report, the department said this was an improvement of $29,200,000 over the previous fiscal year which ended with a deficit of $391,900,000.

The department noted that the deficit as of June 30, the end of fiscal 1955, was 47 per cent below the record deficit of fiscal 1952—$682,400,000.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"REAR VIEW OF DOG SHOW" This is National Dog Week and we should give a thought to man's loyal, canine companion. In former years dogs were trained to hunt, catch rats and herd sheep. Today, dogs are used principally as Ego boosters. No matter how much of a louse you are in the outside world when you get home your dog thinks you're a Prince (and boosts your ego). My Mother raises Cocker Spaniels in Van Nuys, Calif., and I've decided that Cockers are my favorite type dog. They're decorative, intelligent, they don't drool and they're exactly the right size: too big to get squashed if you sit on them, and too little to knock you down if they jump on you. And if a Cocker gets mad, instead of growling or biting—it snubs you. Which is more effective and less dangerous.

Kiwanis Hears Tribute Talk On Constitution

Judge Radcliff Tells How Nation Built Its Basic Law

Circleville Kiwanians joined in local observance of National Constitution Week Monday night with a special program, highlighted by an address by Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff.

Constitution Week, which opened Saturday, is intended to remind American citizens of the rights and privileges they have under the country's basic law. The Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, has urged local groups to hold special programs in tribute to the Constitution.

Residents throughout the county have also been asked to display flags during the week.

Judge Radcliff was introduced at the Kiwanis dinner meeting by Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer. Speaking on "Our Constitution," Judge Radcliff reviewed how it came into existence, and how—in its early amendments—it gave birth to the famed Bill of Rights.

MUCH OF the strength gained by the nation's Constitution, Judge Radcliff told the Kiwanians, should be credited to the work of John Marshall, who made many far-reaching decisions as chief justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. A staunch upholder of the Constitution, he served as head of the high tribunal for 34 years.

In the business portion of the meeting, Frank Marion reported on the highly successful "Kids Day" program sponsored annually by Kiwanis. The local club, as part of the nationwide program, arranged an outing for local youngsters at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

Hurricane Ione Well Out At Sea

9th Blow Of Season Leaves Mark On North Carolina Coastal Area

RALEIGH, N. C. — Coastal North Carolina grimly counted at least five deaths and property damage of untold millions today from Ione, third and worst storm to hit the state this year.

Ione is now well out to sea and moving eastward away from the coast, the Weather Bureau reported. However, a hurricane alert remains from Block Island, R. I., to Provincetown, Mass.

The bureau ordered all warnings south of Block Island to Cape Hatteras, including Chesapeake Bay, lowered. It said strong northwest winds would be felt this afternoon from Block Island to Cape Hatteras, diminishing tonight.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges, who rode out the storm in Morehead City and had to leave the city on a high-wheeled road scraper, said the damage "looks worse than the last two hurricanes." Hurricane Connie did $75 million damage to crops alone.

Hardest hit towns apparently were Morehead City, New Bern, Washington, Belhaven and Elizabeth City. But there were other towns from which no reports had been received. Many of these communities were directly in the path of the storm and were isolated.

Early reports indicated Ione's big punch was water. In Washington the flooding Pamlico River inundated 38 blocks at a depth of four feet. However, the waters receded quickly.

In New Bern, the raging Trent River swept over 40 square blocks and put business buildings and dwellings under three to four feet of water.

Morehead city, 12 miles from New Bern on the coast, also was badly inundated, but there also was extensive wind damage. Nearby Atlantic Beach was pounded by high breakers and was isolated.

Seaside resort towns and beaches which bore the brunt of Hurricane Connie and Diane last month, again surveyed terrific damage from winds that reached 100 miles an hour, and from high tides. The waves at some points broke over debris left a year ago by Hurricane Hazel.

Separate courses will be held for training in the leadership of Boy and Cub Scout units. For those interested in Boy Scouting, the courses will be held in the cafeteria of the high school. The schedule of courses is as follows:

September 21—Fundamentals; September 26—Program Planning; October 5—Patrol and Troop Meetings; October 12—Patrol and Troop Hiking; October 26—Camping; November 2—Helping the Boy to Grow.

Cub Scout classes will meet in Room 1 of the high school and the schedule is: September 21—Fundamentals; September 26—Program Planning; October 5—Patrol and Troop Meetings; October 12—Patrol and Troop Hiking; October 26—Camping; November 2—Helping the Boy to Grow.

Cub Scout classes will meet in Room 1 of the high school and the schedule is: September 21—Fundamentals; September 26—Program Planning; October 5—Patrol and Troop Meetings; October 12—Patrol and Troop Hiking; October 26—Camping; November 2—Helping the Boy to Grow.

The Cub Scout Training Staff is composed of: Bob Cline, Cubmaster; Ovid Clark, Frank Kaufeld, Joe Bell and Carl Tracy, den chiefs; Mrs. Joe Bell and Grace Newton, handicraft.

Jack Fox, Scout executive of the Central Ohio Council, will coordinate the training courses assisted by Friend's committee composed of John Donins, Jack Miller, Tom Matesky, Henkle, Bach and Bob Clark.

The training courses are open to all adults in this and adjoining districts. Parents to Scouts and Cubs are especially invited as many trained leaders are needed for the ambitious program that is being planned for the boys in this district. Parents of Scouts and Cubs Spring was attended by 75 adults, and it was considered a huge success.

A general physical examination will be given, including: ear, nose and throat; dental; eye; plus vaccinations and "triple shots." Specimens are to be brought by all children.

Mrs. Eric Peters is chairman of the health committee for city schools. She is assisted by: Mrs. Charles Walters, Miss Ruth Thompson, Mrs. Dick Robinson and Forrest Brown, president of the Circleville Parent-Teachers Association.

Free films and literature on the subject can be obtained through the council by contacting Miss Ruth Montelius. The phone number is 730.

Miss Montelius explained that the material is available for all community groups and interested individuals. Through the efforts of Ned Harden, the heart organization viewed one of the special films Monday night.

The film, entitled "Valiant Heart," is based on the case history of an 8-year old boy and is especially recommended. Miss Montelius said. However, selections can also be made from a long list of others.

Police say clues found at the scene indicate the thieves were two escapees from the Lancaster Boys Industrial School. Officers add the pair apparently escaped Sept. 14.

The announcement was made by acting postmaster Charles Walters.

Ex-Dictator's Arrest Sought By Rebel Force

that the six-million-member General Federation of Labor (CGT), the backbone of Peron's popular support, is planning a general strike. With such a strike Argentine labor returned Peron to power in 1945 after a military clique had jailed him.

The rebel radio at Bahia Blanca, 325 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, said the CGT "is preparing secretly, under the inspiration of Peron, a general revolutionary strike for dawn to restore the tyrant, betraying all pledges."

The state radio soon after said there would be "no work" in the capital today, but several hours later a broadcast communique from the junta called on the workers to resume work.

The junta did not say where the peace talks with the rebels are taking place, when they started or who represents the rebels.

The army commander in chief, Gen. Jose Domingo Molina, appeared to be the new leader of the junta which took over the reins of government after Peron's resignation yesterday.

Molina was mentioned today as the junta president, whereas previous announcements had listed only three other members in the group: Gen. Emilio Forcher, commander of interior forces; Brig. Gen. Carlos Wirth, chief of staff, and Gen. Angel Juan Mani.

In sweeping changes, the junta named leading army men to replace Peron appointees at the head of the nation's police forces.

It was the rebels' threat at noon yesterday to fire on the oil installations that apparently induced Peron to quit and the army commanders previously loyal to him to propose peace talks.

ONE BIG question mark was whether the rebel commanders, scattered from the central Argentine city of Cordoba, 400 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, to Bahia Blanca, 325 miles to the southwest, could unite and exploit their advantage.

Peron's resignation was accompanied by that of his Cabinet, among them his war minister, Maj. Gen. Franklin Lucero, who had brought the dictator through the abortive June 16 revolt.

Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello, Roman Catholic primate of Argentina, issued his first statement in many months yesterday, calling on the people to work for peace.

The ailing cardinal had been a key figure in the dispute between the Peron regime and the Roman Catholic church, the state church in Argentina. Peron touched off the controversy last November when he said in a speech certain Roman Catholic clergymen were trying to subvert his regime. Roman Catholic leaders including the cardinal denied the charge.

Post Office Sets New System On Money Orders

A new system for the obtaining of postal money orders will go into effect as soon as possible here.

Acting Circleville Postmaster Charles Walters said the changes were being made to prevent the "raising" of amounts on money orders. This is done by altering the figures to raise the value of the money order when it is ready to be cashed, he explained.

From now on, you will no longer have to make out an application for a postal money order. An applicant fills out the order and presents it directly to the clerk.

Also, a special stamp will be used for each $10 denomination. The stamp will read: "Not more than $10", "Not more than $20", etc. up to $100. Therefore, a money order for $18.75 will be stamped "Not more than $20" so that a postal clerk will know that is the top value of the money order.

IN ADDITION to these safeguards, those who make out a money order will have to fill in the amount themselves before handing it to the postal clerk to be stamped. In this way, if there is any mistake on the value of the money order it will be the applicant's responsibility.

Walters said the stamps have been ordered along with new forms.

Party Chiefs Debating Ike

CHICAGO — The chairman of the Republican National Committee still insists he believes President Eisenhower will be a candidate for reelection, but the Democratic national chairman predicts he will not run again.

Leonard W. Hall, the GOP chairman, and Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler expressed their views here yesterday.

Hall said he feels certain Eisenhower will be a candidate and announce his 1956 plans "well in advance" of the Republican National Convention in San Francisco in August.

"I'm organizing on the basis that he will run again," Hall said. "I think it will be

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: On the surface it would seem that I ought to be madly happy — as I am married to a most interesting man with a wonderful sense of humor, who is crazy about me. We live in the country, which we love, with our five small children. They are healthy and happy and play and scrap together in a way that, to me, seems completely normal.

However, since our first child was born 5½ years ago, I've had a growing conviction that my mother-in-law wants to take her away from me. We were living with Mrs. X at that time, and any possessiveness she may have felt for my husband (her only child) seems to have been transferred to our firstborn, to the exclusion of our other children.

I've told John that I feel like a clam, with his mother the starfish, using gentle but unremitting pressure to open me up and get my child and break up our family circle. John thinks I am slightly crazy about this. But it is natural, I think, that his mother should be his blind spot. We are in debt to Mrs. X, who is gracious about lending us money from her limited means; and while we are paying her back, I feel the indebtedness is bad for us. Even to write of it makes me slightly ill.

Distrust Is Problem

Vicky has been at her grandmother's the last four days. She was supposed to be home yesterday but Mrs. X called and I spinelessly agreed to another day's stay. We live in a rather isolated spot and I don't drive; which complicates things.

Recently I've been plugging for a move back to town. But it occurs to me as I write that instead of haggling to move which I don't really want, I should campaign for a better car (which John does want), and learn to drive. Then I'd have more mobility, to pick up Vicky, etc.

However, that still wouldn't solve my real worry—which is distrust of my mother-in-law, founded in fact. I get sick at my stomach thinking about it. I don't think Mrs. X consciously wants to keep us dependent or to take our little girl from us; but still this seems to be her essential purpose.

S.C.

DEAR S. C.: It is interesting that you think Mrs. X's performance is more compulsive than consciously executed. Very likely this is a true observation. It is possible that, unknown to herself, Mrs. X is driven by obscure malevolence to try to "even the score" with you — by alienating the affections of your firstborn, as if to compensate for your "taking" her son (and only child).

Or it may be that her shift of proprietary interest, from married son to first born grandchild, reflects a compulsive drive for long-term emotional "security" for herself. Perhaps unconsciously she is figuring far ahead, to a period when she may need somebody to "take care" of her; and has earmarked your Vicky for the role—because it seems a "natural," inasmuch as they are congenial.

My theory about your anxiety is: If things were right between you and Mrs. X, you would be at ease in relation to her. Your profound uneasiness indicates that something is wrong. And your sense of dealing with slippery motives and treacherous objectives, while on the surface all seems fair, deserves respectful consideration.

Possibly Hate Involved

As to why your misgivings make you sick, perhaps you hate Mrs. X at heart—a smouldering secret that conflicts with your love of your husband and his allegiance to her—thus agitating the whole mainstream of your thought-feeling. And maybe you haven't dared face this inner disorder—nor dared to manifest intelligent, firm resourcefulness, in keeping the record straight, as regards your intuitive opposition to her stealthy purposes, whatever they are.

Now for advice: 1. Don't let Vicky stay overnight with Mrs. X, since you feel a tug-of-war is being waged. Don't let anyone talk you out of this decision — neither husband nor child nor mother-in-law. You can head off sabotage to this extent—if you have the guts to do it. 2. Get a new car and learn to drive, of course; but maybe you should move back to town too. You need stepped-up social contacts, to maintain good mental health. 3. Discuss your worries with a psychiatrist at the state university psychiatric clinic in the city through which you write.

Have Federal Credit Rules Slowed Boom?

Expert Notes Little Decline In Business, But Future Watched

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — What effect have governmental credit restraints had on slowing the business boom?

Very little, so far. The most tangible result of the money managers' moves to tighten credit has been to cause an increase in interest rates — and hence an increase in the cost of doing business — and to make the banks scurry around to find new money to lend to their many would-be borrowers.

The mild restraints may take visible form in the months ahead. They are chiefly aimed at acting as a governor to prevent the business boom from running away.

But so far there are few signs of slowing down — and many signs of more industrial and trade activity the rest of this year.

Far from being deterred by higher interest rates, businessmen are planning to find some 7½ billion dollars to put into expansion of plants and buying of new equipment in the final months of this year.

Unimpressed by warnings that only easy credit terms could keep auto sales booming, the auto industry says it plans to turn out 1956 models at the same fast clip it set when it introduced the 1955's. Car dealers are being warned to prepare for even keener competition next year.

And the industry intends to go right on expanding.

The housing industry was thought by many to be a particular target of the credit-tightening program. And in July the starting of new homes faltered a little. But it snapped back in August and builders say the revival is lasting in September. August starts put the building pace eight per cent higher than a year ago and almost even with the 1950 record.

Tightening in mortgage money supply hasn't been felt much yet, say the bankers. Financing for new homes is still available. But the bankers believe that before much longer the money supply for new mortgages will get tight indeed. Retail hopes, indeed, are running high for record Christmas trade in

3 Ohio Geologists Strike Rich Colorado Uranium Lode

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three 26-year-old Ohio State University geologists have struck a rich uranium deposit in Colorado, an attorney-partner announced today.

George Lesly, Columbus attorney, said the discovery was made in an abandoned silver mine near Crystal, Colo.

Lesly reports the Atomic Energy Commission's assay of ore taken from the old mine shows a 2.75 per cent Uranium content, one of the richer finds of recent record. A content of 11-100ths of one per cent is considered sufficient for commercial extraction of the valued element, he added.

The find was made by Robert Earhart and William Wise, both of Columbus, who graduated from Ohio State several months ago, and Robert Williams of Alexandria, Ohio, in Licking County, an Ohio State geology senior, Lesly said.

Lesly's associate, attorney Kenneth Agee of Columbus, was reported in California. Also a partner in the prospecting venture, Lesly said, is Welcome Joe Neal of Indianapolis.

The uranium find, Lesly told newsmen, is a primary deposit. He said this means the ore was all lines, whether those for which people usually pay cash or those which they usually put on the cuff.

That manufacturers agree is shown by the orders pouring into the basic industries. Steel mills are operating only a little below capacity. Orders crowd their books for the rest of this year. Customers are asking about deliveries in the first months of 1956.

There is no sign yet of any let-down in steel demand.

The brakes may take hold later, but as of now business is still booming.

Man Buys Heifer; Liked Her Face

CARTHAGE, Tenn. (AP) — A painter and writer who calls New York and Paris his homes got carried away at Sen. Albert Gore's first production sale of Black Angus cows and bought a heifer he has no place to put.

Ludwig Bemelmans bought Miss Burgess of Marwood for $1,250 yesterday and then explained: "She had such a kind face I couldn't keep from buying her."

Bemelmans owns a dairy farm in Austria, but he never attended a beef cattle sale before. He plans to leave Miss Burgess at Gore's farm until he can wind up plans to buy a Virginia farm.

Bolivia has no seaport, being completely landlocked.

Man Indicted In Armory Holdup

CLEVELAND (AP) — A grand jury returned an indictment yesterday charging Raymond Everhart, 24, of Akron with armed robbery and shooting to kill in the March 19 raid of a National Guard Armory in suburban Shaker Heights. Police said another participant in the raid was bank robber Louis Teller, now serving a 25-year term in federal prison.

Four sub-machineguns were taken from the armory, where Warrant Officer John Sullivan was wounded.

The man who had to live

This man has sat in the hospital corridor for four hours.

The parents of an injured child are sitting across from him.

In a matter of minutes a surgeon will come from the operating room and tell them the child, just nine, is dead.

The man will rise to his feet and face the parents. There will be nothing he can do and little he can say. He will wish with all his heart that the accident had not happened.

Now, of course, it is too late. The child is dead; the man must live.

He wasn't speeding, and he was on his side of the street. The child ran directly into the path of his car.

But in his heart, he's guilty. He forgot the carelessness of youth. He failed to remember that youngsters think and act like youngsters. He failed to think for anyone except himself. He failed a nine-year-old child.

Schools are opening throughout the land, and millions of youngsters are on the go. When you drive your car, drive safely, and think for those youngsters as well as yourself. You may save a life—and spare yourself a tragedy you'll have to live with the rest of your days.

ENROLLMENT TIDAL WAVE FACES AMERICAN COLLEGES

These elementary school pupils will be flooding college campuses in less than a decade.

By Central Press Association
AMERICAN COLLEGES and universities this fall are facing an enrollment tidal wave of astonishing proportions.

They know when it will come and why—but they can't stop it. Relentless statistics compiled by scores of public and private educational agencies and by noted educators add up to the same thing—a seam-splitting doubling of the present national college enrollment of 2,500,000 in about 10 years.

The problem facing the educators is simply this: there will be twice as many students in 10 years but obviously there will not be twice as many teachers or twice as many educational institutions, nor will there be twice as much money in the coffers of the colleges and universities with which to battle the enrollment bulge.

There is no chance that the estimators have made a mistake in anticipating the student boom. The prospects they are counting are already born and in elementary and secondary schools. They are the results of the "baby boom" which did fantastic things to America's national birthrate during and following World War II.

THE "BABY BOOM" hit the schools of the nation in this manner. From 1942 to 1953 there were three to four million births annually. These children should enter high school from 1956-1967. They will be ready to enter college from 1960 to 1971. They will be graduated from college from 1964 to 1975. Unlike the temporary enrollment bulge of veterans after the war, this tidal wave will continue as long as the present birth rate continues.

In preparing for the enrollment surge the colleges and universities have had to face several facts. One is the problem of facilities. Although the number of students is increasing year by year and has been since 1942, the supply of teachers has been dwindling. The supply has dwindled because

Editor's Note — This is the first of a series on what is taking place along the national political front where both Republican and Democratic national headquarters already have plunged deep into the fight for control of the White House and Congress in the 1956 elections.

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON — A full 13 months ahead of the 1956 elections, Republicans and Democrats are mobilizing for the great battle for control of the White House and Congress.

Not in recent political history has there been such an early surge of activity along the national political front. One party worker commented:

"A short president campaign in 1956? Don't you believe it. The campaign already is under way as far as we're concerned. This is going to be one of the longest campaigns we've ever had."

The business of choosing a candidate and waging a barnstorming campaign is months away—but the struggle between the parties already has the politicians maneuvering their troops in the field.

L. Richard Guylay, publicity chief for the Republican National Committee, and Sam Brightman, who occupies a similar post in the Democratic national headquarters, are men who disagree on many things. But they agree on this point: the fight between the parties is developing far faster than it did in the last presidential election.

Four years ago, the early political skirmish was pretty much confined to candidates jousting among themselves for their party's nomination—and these contests didn't develop to any great degree until the late winter and early spring of 1952. Once the candidates were nominated—Dwight Eisenhower by the Republicans and Adlai Stevenson by the Democrats—then the parties turned their guns full force against each other.

But now both parties are starting early to establish issues, and their national headquarters are pushing programs to organize precinct workers who will get out the vote.

The Democrats are stepping up their attacks on Eisenhower and his administration, bearing down on such issues as farm prices, public-versus-private power, and what the Democrats say is Republican favoritism toward big business.

The Republicans are leaning heavily on the "peace and prosperity" slogan and Eisenhower's personal popularity which even the Democrats acknowledge privately is at a high level.

The Republicans already have held a "political school" for the 48 GOP state chairmen, discussing issues and techniques for getting out the vote in the '56 election. These state chairmen are arranging similar meetings in their home states for county leaders, and these meetings will be carried on down to the precinct level.

On Sept. 29, more than 30,000 Republican women will begin ringing doorbells across the nation polling voters on how they will vote and what they consider to be the big issues in the campaign. They plan to call at all the homes in one precinct of each county in the United States.

The Democrats also plan to take a voter poll of their own, and they will match the Republicans' "political school" with a meeting of national and state leaders to be held in Chicago Oct. 1.

U.S. Arctic Fleet Escapes Ice Pack

SEATTLE (AP)—A Navy officer said all 58 ships of the fleet that sailed north of Alaska with cargoes for the arctic radar network are escaping the dangerous threat of Arctic Ocean ice.

Lt. Cmdr. Robert F. Hopkins made the report Monday after his arrival here on the survey ship Requisite.

All the ships now are safely west of Point Barrow, northernmost tip of North America, on their return trip, he said. The ice knocked holes in four ships and took out the rudder of another, but all were able to proceed, he added.

Tired Of Your Job, Lady? Then Try The Oil Business

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Tired of the same old ladylike job? Go into the oil business, girls, advises Edna Hurry, newly elected president of the Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America.

There are at present 9,000 members of this unique organization, composed of women working in the oil industry. During their recent convention in New York, 900 of the gals represented clubs in 30 states and three Canadian provinces.

Jobs held by these women range from presidents of oil companies to secretaries and file clerks.

"We have a lot of girls who are engineers, geologists and chemists working in the oil business," says Miss Hurry, whose own job is in the personnel department of a New Jersey oil company. "Even those who have desk jobs find there's never a dull moment. Things just seem to happen in the oil industry."

The new secretary of the organization, Elizabeth Van Kuyk of New York, is assistant manager of the pipeline right-of-way division of a big oil company. The second vice president, Irma Cline of Wichita Falls, Tex., is a partner in an oil company and works for a firm of lawyers serving the oil business. Other officers are Lydia Babka of San Francisco, first vice president, and Esther Welch of Amarillo, Tex., treasurer.

These girls are serious about their business. Their meetings are devoted to study of methods and operations and discussions of how to do their jobs better.

Elephant Expert To Talk To Vicki Just 'Like A Baby'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Now that Mecklenburg County is learning to live with Vicki, its wayward and unobtrusive elephant, the animal may be calming down.

Veteran elephant man Louie Reed, called in on the hunt from Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, says if he can spot her in her woodland fastness six miles from downtown Charlotte he thinks he can coax her home by talking to her "like a baby."

Reed figures Vicki was made skittish by amateur elephant hunters since her disappearance 10 days ago from her amusement park home. Monday she would have nothing to do with the bait scattered along woodland trails—white bread and grain, mixed with molasses. Usually she loves it.

Owner Jack Partlow says he's confident his 6-year-old Indian elephant will be caught.

THIS ELECTRONIC AGE

DETROIT, the incubator of the American automobile age, is doing its bit to limit the potential destructiveness of the mechanized fruits of its labor. The city's department of streets and traffic has been experimenting with a closed television circuit which keeps the city's busiest thoroughfare under remote-control surveillance.

Police monitoring the television screens can dispatch help as needed in the event of accidents or unexpected traffic jams.

The three cameras used in the experiment were installed on bridges overlooking the expressway in such a manner that the individual doing the monitoring can control their angle of vision and alter the type of lens. It's possible to get sufficiently close to an accident scene to observe its severity.

The man on the monitor also controls the expressway signal lights and can modify traffic flow to meet the circumstances.

Here is a logical forward step in the electronics age. Autoists who are now under the radar gun on many highways may soon also be subject to the scrutiny of an untold number of all-seeing eyes. Only those who have the type of thick-skinned personality that's insensitive to audiences will fail to concentrate on their driving under such conditions.

OPENING THE DOOR

RED CHINA'S promise to release the remaining 29 American civilians Peiping is known to hold captive is a belated correction of a vile offense. It has been widely charged, moreover, that the Chinese Reds hold other Americans who are listed as missing.

But the fact that the reds have moved to appease American anger at their action in illegally holding these hostages for years, without demanding a specific quid pro quo may indicate a certain inclination on the part of Peiping to avoid war at this time. It may also reflect a belief that the United States is not the warmonger depicted in Red Chinese propaganda.

ATOMIC ENERGY IN OFFING

WRITING FOR the September issue of Popular Mechanics Magazine, Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel prizewinner and a key figure in the development of atomic energy, says that before long atomic energy plants capable of competing economically with other sources of power will be a reality.

He cites the submarine Nautilus as a marker in the march toward this realization, and reviews the rapid progress of science in the field of nuclear energy, which he recommends for young students.

Some experts believe the goal will be reached in 10 years. It is no longer in the area of theoretical science.

She Journeys Into Past

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "This is a most unattractive section now," said the little grandmotherly old lady, shaking her head as she peered out the car window. "Isn't it terrible?"

The lady was Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. And she was looking at the site of the old Madison Square Garden, atop which in 1906 her husband, Harry K. Thaw, shot to death her former lover, Stanford White, in New York's most celebrated murder case.

She seemed depressed at the way the neighborhood has run down since, as she terms it now, "the tragedy" took place.

But after 49 years "the tragedy" has turned out to be a form of social security for Miss Nesbit. She's back in the broiled quail league again. A movie studio has paid her upwards of $50,000 for a film based on her life called "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing."

"If you think I'm going to invest that money, you're crazy," remarked Miss Nesbit spiritedly. "I never invest in anything but a good meal."

Food seemed more on her mind than sentiment as Miss Nesbit, now a Los Angeles housewife, and I took a ride down memory lane in a rented limousine. At 70 this faded beauty of a faded past looks like a graying retired schoolmarm. But few schoolmarm have her bounce — and none, I suppose, quite has her memories.

Passing her old home on Park Avenue, the first floor of which now is a dress shop, she said:

"No, Thaw didn't live there with me. He resided in the Bastille then—in Durance Vile. Boy, the breakfasts I used to have in that house—broiled quail eggs, trout, fried oysters."

We drove by the former location of Sherry's Restaurant, and she said:

"Oh, the wonderful terrapin they served. The t-e-r-r-a-p-i-n — she spelled it out, as if no one in the present generation could remember it—"is a member of the turtle family, only it tastes better."

The swiftly changing Manhattan scene bewildered her. Most of the landmarks of her champagne youth were gone.

"Everything is so different," she kept saying. "It's so changed. Why have they torn down so many beautiful old buildings?"

Then she was back on food again.

"I ate so much in the old days I still wonder why I didn't get fat," she said. "Lillian Russell was bowing out of the picture as I walked in. Styles were changing. Boy, was she upstaged!"

"No, I never met Diamond Jim Brady. Stanford White was too snobbish to speak to Brady. He thought he was a frightful character."

Miss Nesbit, who still insists that White, a famous architect who designed the Washington arch, is the only man she ever really loved, described him as

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

One of the most important speeches at the meeting of the American Bar Association at Philadelphia was delivered by Lord Denning, Lord Justice of Appeal, of Great Britain. He was dealing with the broad subject of "The Price of Freedom." One of his points was:

"I suggest that where the law falls short is that it puts too much emphasis on the supposed contract between a man and his union and too little emphasis on his right to work. A man's right to work is just as important to him, indeed more important, than his rights of property."

"If his rights of property are invaded, the Courts have well known causes of action to protect him. His house, his furniture, and his investments are all well safeguarded by the law. But his right to work is left open to marauders."

"If he is wrongfully deprived of his right to work, the Courts should intervene to protect him. They have always protected him against wrongful exclusion by his union."

This problem must face the British as it does the American people. Without at all raising the question of the virtue of trade unionism, is it correct to ask what redress a man has who is deprived of the opportunity to earn a living because of a conflict with a particular trade union? That conflict may be over as small an issue as an infraction of a rule or as great as issue as a refusal to join.

Protests are constantly being made against the unwillingness of an employer or the government to employ Communists or former Communists on the grounds that a citizen ought not to be deprived of his living, but nothing is said about a labor union blacklisting an individual. If an American is not permitted to work for any reason, is he not blacklisted?

This question of the right to work will not down; it requires some adjustment on the part of labor leaders. Samuel Gompers, who founded the American Federation of Labor, was always opposed to compulsion because it was an infraction of human liberty. Gompers, while a labor leader and perhaps the most capable that this country has ever known, believed in the voluntary society.

Younger labor leaders, of whom Walter Reuther is typical, are in a terrific hurry to accomplish their ends, often forgetting, in their haste, that compulsion can ruin the nature of the American society.

Lord Denning quotes Charles Geddes, chairman of the British Trade Union Congress, on this subject:

"I do not believe the trade union movement of Great Britain can live for very much longer on the basis of compulsion. Must people belong to us or starve, whether they like our policies or not? Is that to be the future of the movement? No. I believe the trade union card is an honour to be conferred, not a badge which signifies that you have got to do something whether you like it or not. We want the right to exclude people from our union if necessary and we cannot do that on a basis of 'Belong or starve.'"

DIET AND HEALTH Modern Mouth Hygiene

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

GOOD dentifrices and mouth washes are about as important as your toothbrush in keeping your teeth and mouth in condition.

In the past, some dentifrices have been highly abrasive. Today, however, virtually all of them have been modified so that you can use them with safety.

Powder or Paste

Determine which powder or paste you prefer by the ease with which it permits you to clean your teeth. Some require more vigorous brushing than others.

If you prefer, you can make your own dentifrice. Mix equal portions of salt and soda and place the mixture on a wet toothbrush.

Mouth washes are also very beneficial.

Salt and Water

Hydrogen peroxide solution, one part to three parts of water, is a good mouth wash. So is one-half teaspoonful of salt in a glass of water. For ordinary cleaning purposes you can use milk of magnesia or sodium bicarbonate, mixed in water.

Like other parts of your body, your teeth are built by materials supplied by food. To maintain sound teeth and healthy gums you particularly need calcium and vitamins C and D.

(Copyright, 1955, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

To make sure you get the essential food elements you need, your daily diet should include:

- One or more servings of leafy green and yellow vegetables.
- One or more servings of citrus fruits, tomatoes or raw cabbage.
- Two or more servings of potatoes, other vegetables and fruits.
- At least three-quarters to one quart of milk for children and at least one to one-and-a-half pints for adults.
- At least one serving of meat, fish, poultry, eggs or vegetables.
- Cereals at least once a day. Use of flour or servings of bread at each meal.
- One to three tablespoonfuls of butter or margarine.

Have your dentist check your teeth at least twice a year. Children's teeth should be checked every four months after they reach the age of three.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

I.F.M.: What causes very severe pain in the knees?

ANSWER: There are several causes for pain in the knees. Arthritis is a frequent cause. Excessive strain on the joints, as a result of flat feet, might also produce the condition. Disturbances of the circulation might also be responsible.

A careful study by an orthopedic surgeon is advisable.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

ADAM and Pinky strolled to the patio market.

They entered a shop, small, white plastered. There was a single clerk, a thin young woman with heavy bracelets on one arm, and a Concha belt. There were racks of clothes. In her arrogant way, Pinky pulled things out, held them at arm's length, put them back.

Adam smiled apologetically at the clerk and asked to see a blue dress.

"No, wait, Adam!" cried Pinky. "I want to see what else they have."

The clerk fetched the blue dress from the window, but Pinky was still rummaging in the rack of Navajo adaptations. She draped a linen shirt over her shoulder, held a pleated red skirt in place.

"Take off my hat," she ordered Adam. "Lily and the squaws don't seem compatible."

"Let me," suggested the clerk. Adam saw her peek into the crown of the little pancake sailor, and nod.

Pinky shook out her red hair, dropped the red skirt. The clerk had the blue dress ready. "Try it on."

Without a tremor, Pinky slipped out of the suit jacket. Her white taffeta scarf was pinned to her bra—Adam stood in a corner and looked uncomfortable. The dress slipped down over Pinky's shining head; she stepped free of the suit skirt, let the clerk zip her. The dress was perfect.

"It's hand-dyed," said the woman. "That's how we get such a marvelous blue. We take muslin, and dye it ourselves."

Pinky flipped at the tiers of tiny ruffles around the low bodice, in rows at her hips, a froth of them at the hem of the skirt; she shook her hair back and free, cut her eye at Adam, pointedly ignoring the saleswoman who was holding a necklace.

"The dress was a hundred and ten dollars, and Adam paid for it in cash."

"Send it to Mrs. Haggard at La Fonda," said Pinky, out of the dress again, and again displayed in her nylon slip.

"Oh, you're—" began the clerk. Then she caught herself up short. "No," she corrected, "you're not!"

Adam looked at her. The woman laughed, nervously. "I should have known," she chattered. "A tourist would say the La Fonda."

"Yes," said Pinky coldly. She caught at Adam's arm, and led him to the door, her hat carried in one hand. "Thank you, darling," she said warmly.

They went out into the street, and strolled toward the museum. "But ooooh," she purred. "What will Ann say?"

"Same thing she said about the gas permit. Nothing!"

During the winter Adam bought back his pick-up truck, for Hermann's use, he told Ann. He kept it in a commercial garage, and that way always had a car when he needed or wanted one.

Adam now had a dozen men working for him, and looked forward to the expiration of his contract with the University of California. He could have had several house contracts. The log house he was building for Ann was widely noticed. Work on it went slowly now because he so often pulled his men away to do other jobs. And week ends were not enough, what with little dates with Pinky.

Pinky still was Ann's "girl friend," still stayed often for dinner with the Laids. Adam still took her home at bedtime, always returning immediately, but often having arranged some meeting with Pinky, meetings that were planned furtively and carried out in secrecy.

March came, and spring touched the orchards in the sheltered valleys with blossoms, grass became green and huge flowers gold-dusted the forsythia.

Melting snow in the mountains made sense out of the red-painted rippap at which Adam had laughed in the dry bed of the trickling river. He mentioned this to Ann and Pinky one evening. "Now you can't hear yourself think over the racket the river makes in some places." He rose from the table.

"I have to meet a painter out at the house—you'd better come along, Ann. Help decide on colors."

"They don't have anything but blue paint in New Mexico," said Ann. "It must be a law."

"Turquoise, darling," drawled Pinky. "Not blue."

"Looks blue to me," said Ann.

Adam stood at the door, waiting. "Go along," she told him. "I'd rather go to the movies."

She was wearing a gingham house dress; Pinky was in jeans and plaid shirt. Ann had become somewhat stubborn about wearing Western clothes. Now she went into the bedroom and laid a new suit across the bed, and a white hat. There was something defiant about the way she did this. Pinky lifted an eyebrow at Adam.

"I'll ride as far as the hotel with Adam," she called to Ann. "I don't want to change."

"O.K.," said Ann indifferently.

They did ride as far as the hotel, and farther—out to the house to meet the painter, to decide on colors, and afterwards to drive along the mountain rim road, to see the full moon hanging like a polished chrome disc before them, above the valleys etched in silver on black. Adam pulled to a look-out space, cut the motor, turned off the lights. Pinky sat, lips parted, eyes shining.

"It's spiritual," she whispered, leaning her head against his shoulder. Moonlight, and the clear cold air, flowed like water down the mountain, pooled darkly shining in the valley, spread out like silver on the mesa. "Oh, Adam, doesn't it hurt?"

"Beautiful," Adam agreed.

"Just us up here," she murmured, "and down there—the world." Her head moved against his cheek. "All for us."

Adam's arms held her close, closer.

"Don't talk," she urged. "Just—feel, Adam! Just—"

Adam was laughing when, at last, he leaned forward to switch on the ignition. "Still feeling spiritual, Pinky?" he drawled.

She made a face at him. "No," she said bluntly.

She was always ready to do new things; one Saturday as she and Adam prepared to go to the house, he spoke of his recent discovery that Ernest Thomas Seton had lived near Santa Fe.

"He's a famous author, wrote all those books about wolves and other animals," Adam explained.

"Where is this castle?" asked Pinky when she and Adam started off.

"Less than five miles out of town."

"On this road?"

"I think so."

They drove for ten miles on that road, and found no castle. Adam's informant had said the place was plainly marked, and not far from a zoo.

He backed the station wagon, and turned it back toward the city. "Maybe it's north."

"There are road maps," suggested Pinky.

"Wait a minute." He pulled up beside an Indian who was plodding along the shoulder. The man wore a black suit, and an ancient black Stetson atop his head band. The Indian was ancient, too.

"Do you know how to reach Seton Castle?" asked Adam.

The Indian said nothing.

"Do you speak English?" yelled Pinky.

"I speak good."

"All right. Is this the road to Seton Castle?"

Slowly the man's arm lifted, his finger pointed to the sky. "Go that way," he said somberly.

Adam laughed and started the car. But when finally they did get on the right road, and drove into the estate—

"Hey," he cried, "that Indian was right!"

Seeming to float above the trees was the castle, yellow stone and adobe. Big windowed, it clung to the mountainside.

"More trees than I knew were in all New Mexico," murmured Pinky. Adam carefully drove along the winding road, to the left was a sign, Indian Village, but they'd see the castle first.

There was the usual rock-walled patio, with blue jars, chairs, a fireplace. The house was comfortable, the living room shabby and crowded with mementoes of the famous man and his work, framed drawings of his characters, wood carvings. Adam bought an autographed book from the author's sister, and listened to her stories.

Address On Korea Featured At Woman's Society Session

Capt. Ben Jennings of the Lockbourne Air Base was guest speaker at a meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Ashville Methodist church, held in the church.

Capt. Jennings spoke on the life and religion of the people of Korea, as he had observed them during the year he spent in Korea on tour of duty with the Army. He was introduced by program chairman, Mrs. Link Brown.

The speaker stated, "There is so much to be done in the Far East. The gateway of Christianity in Korea is through Japan." He noted that at the end of World War II, the religion of Shintoism was no longer a compulsory national religion, so Buddhism and Confucianism has infiltrated the country. Now Christianity has to combat the teachings of those three religions.

The influx of the American GI, according to the speaker, was a great boon to the Korean people, helping them to become interested in other things besides the rice paddy fields.

Through the Armed Forces, the Koreans were furnished materials to build schools, hospitals and churches. At the conclusion of his talk, Capt. Jennings answered questions asked by the society members.

The society voted to send a cash contribution to the Methodist missionaries in Korea.

Mrs. John Sabine, vice president of the society, conducted a business session, when initial plans for

Ancient Chinese Abacus Now Comes to Aid Of Mathematics Classes in U. S. Schools

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The ancient abacus (2,500 years old and pronounced with the accent on the ab—) is playing a leading role in a nation-wide movement toward more intensive training in mathematics to cope with calculating problems of the atomic age.

Its big revival here in the western world, after having originated in China and Japan where its use still is almost universal, is further denial of the famed prediction of the British author Rudyard Kipling that "east is east, and west is west, and n'er the twain shall meet!"

Even more remarkable is the fact that the largest producer and promoter of the abacus in the United States currently is also one of the leading adding machine companies whose respect for the venerable manual calculator may have been won some time ago when a Japanese abacist soundly beat an American operating a modern calculating machine in a speed test.

The actual originator of the bring-back-the-abacus movement, however, is Dr. Andrew F. Schott, an educational consultant here attached to Marquette university, who recently reported on three years of experimentation in better arithmetic teaching to the more than six hundred teachers attending the 54th annual meeting of the Central Association of Science and Mathematics Teachers.

THE ABACUS has "arrived" here already, and in seven public, Catholic and Lutheran, elementary, junior and senior high schools, more than 1,500 students and 30 teachers are taking part in the educational project.

As most patrons of Chinese laundries and restaurants know, an abacus is an arrangement of rods with beads running on them, set in a frame divided into upper and lower sections. Not all abaci (plural of abacus) are alike by any means. The Chinese put two beads on each rod in the upper part and five in the lower; the Japanese call theirs the soroban and use a one plus four setup.

To work it, if you want to add, say, 12 and 13, you move two beads to the top of the bottom section of the right-hand rod, and one to the top of the next rod to the left. Then add three more beads to the right rod and one more to the left rod, meaning the 13 you are adding, and the result is graphically shown to be 25, sure enough!

By naming the beads "kittens," "horses," or anything else that captures the imagination of young-

Dr. Andrew F. Schott demonstrates to a group of Milwaukee teachers the operation of the abacus as a short cut to giving pupils a running start in learning mathematics.

Youngsters find abacus lots of fun.

sters, the teacher can make the very earliest arithmetic graphic to kindergarten tots, says Dr. Schott. In fact, junior, by secretly counting on his fingers, has been doing that already!

Dr. Schott has adapted the abacus to our decimal system by "inventing" a new arrangement of two beads on each upper part of the rod and nine below. The beads above "carry" the sums. This has so intrigued the Orientals whose forebears invented the gadget in the first place that they are eagerly sending for the new "American abacus."

Experts learn to perform subtraction and division "miracles" on the abacus, as well as prodigious feats of high speed addition, and in Japan the subtleties of the 1-4 arrangement have led to a "philosophy of allegorism" that is a hobby which may be compared with chess in this country.

Getting a supply of the "American abacus" was a problem at first for Dr. Schott, and he decided to "beard the lion in his den" by suggesting to an adding machine firm that it manufacture some.

The shock subsided when Dr. Schott pointed out that in a sense the abacus is an adding "machine" and that youngsters broken in on it would quickly shift to mechanical calculators. In fact, that is the second part of Dr. Schott's program—to get arithmetic and mathematics quickly onto the machine basis rather than to keep it on pad and paper, so that the modern mechanical aids may be used realistically in teaching.

Besides, since it takes a really expert Oriental abacus operator five years of the most intensive training, Dr. Schott was able to reassure the adding machine industry that it faces no really devastating competitor.

The result is a cute plastic gadget, with vari-colored "chips" sliding on gray plastic rods. A manual goes with it, showing what it can do. An unexpected development was that when Mom and Pop helped Junior with his homework, they became so intrigued that it has become a new hobby in this city and might spread throughout the country.

Sokolsky's These Days

No more correct statement on the subject could be made. If the unions are to be permitted to exercise power, they must assume obligations beneficial to the whole people. If the United States is to tolerate compulsory unionism, a limitation upon freedom of choice is permitted which could not have been intended by those who wrote the Constitution because they do not permit similar limitations on freedom of choice to be exercised even by the government.

It would seem that with the tremendous success of American trade unionism, its enormous wealth and power, the time has come to reconsider the moral position of the entire movement. In Great Britain, until this year, the union movement was able to resist many of the unpalatable characteristics of American trade unionism.

This year, the jurisdictional strike appeared there in all its ugliness and was resented by the trade unions as well as the people.

It has given the British a taste of something they will not permit and it frightened the labor leaders because they know that if British people turn on them, Parliament will pass restrictive legislation. That could happen here too.

3 Million Ohio Cars Predicted

COLUMBUS (P)—Passenger car registration in Ohio will pass the three million mark this year, Ervin Nofer, state register of motor vehicles, predicts.

He estimated about 2,846,000 passenger autos had been registered up to Sept. 1, compared with 2,897,481 for last year.

Registrations this year are running almost 8 per cent more than for the corresponding period of 1954, Nofer said. If this holds true for the remainder of this year, he added, the total will exceed 3,071,000, an all-time high.

Great Smoky Mountains national park contains 461,000 acres formerly occupied by the Cherokee Indians.

CINCINNATI HIGH

At its first meeting of the new school year, the junior class elected Janice Van Hoose as secretary-treasurer. Since time was limited, election of other officers will be held at the next meeting.

Fred Watts, advisor of the junior class, picked the jewelry committee for the year, so all school jewelry will soon be on order.

Each Friday Mrs. Crites provides the superintendents office with the complete cafeteria menu for the following week. These mimeographed copies of the menu are posted in each home room.

Here are the menus for the week of September 19.

Monday: baked beans with chopped wieners, cottage cheese, cole slaw, milk, bread and butter.

Tuesday: sloppy Joe on bun, apple sauce, pickled beets, cookie, milk.

Wednesday: luncheon meat, buttered peas and carrots, bread and butter, ice cream sandwich, milk.

Thursday: chicken salad on bun, mashed potatoes, gravy, grapefruit, milk.

Friday: sliced cheese or peanut butter, green beans and corn, cake, bread and butter, milk.

Many CHS clubs are voting in new members for this year. The Junior and Senior S.O.S. received 45 members.

Their purpose is to enrich the lives of members through fellowship, service, and everyday living of religious principles. A girl must have a two-point average before she is eligible.

EMS, The English honorary club will announce its plans for membership soon.

Hi-Y and Stooze, the two boys' clubs' will be taking in new members also.

Work and lives of British and other European authors comprise the senior English course this fall.

Mrs. Annette Will, teacher of junior and senior English, has assigned each student 10 short stories as an outside project.

Each night the student has a story to read from his Prose and Poetry of English and textbook. The next day the class discusses the story. Students compare and writers. They also study the many conditions of the countries that would affect the writings of authors.

A problem at the city schools right now is the traffic. Some boys and girls do not watch for trucks and cars when they cross the street.

If a motorist hits a child, the driver usually believes it is the child's fault, and much of the time it may be.

Smaller children forget, so the grown-ups must remember to watch out for them.

Cincy Detective Killed In Holdup

CINCINNATI (P)—An off duty police detective, standing at a bar in downtown Cincinnati, was shot to death last night when he attempted to stop two men from holding up the tavern.

The victim was Walter Hart, 48. He wounded one of the two gunmen before he was killed.

None of the bystanders was hurt.

Man Survives Bear-Mauling

MANISTIQUE, Mich. (P)—A caged bear at a roadside zoo chewed an attendant from head to foot Sunday. But the victim was still alive today.

Richard McBurney, 62, of Manistique, was bitten on the head, chest, shoulders, abdomen, arms and legs. His condition was described today as fair.

McBurney, a parttime employee of the zoo, was attacked when he opened the cage door to give the animal water.

Fred Kerridge, operator of a nearby tavern, finally drove off the bear by hitting him on the head with a shovel.

Male Nurse Commissioning Scheduled Soon By Army

WASHINGTON (P)—The Army said today it probably will start commissioning male nurses as reserve second lieutenants in four to six weeks.

A table outlining qualifications for male aspirants for reserve nurse commissions, a spokesman said, may go out sometime this week to command posts at home and abroad.

This will be the first time in U.S. history that men have been permitted officer rank in the nurse corps.

A new law allowing this—sponsored by Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio)—recently was signed by President Eisenhower.

The Navy is given the same right under this legislation. But a Navy official said the Navy's plans still aren't "squared away."

One thing the Army still is considering, the Army official said, is the type of uniform men nurses will wear on duty.

"We'll probably have uniforms similar to what the enlisted clinical technicians wear—white cotton trousers and a short white coat with short sleeves," he said.

Title Match Is Postponed By Hurricane

Marciano, Moore Set To Go Tomorrow Night In Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — The heavyweight championship fight between titleholder Rocky Marciano and challenger Archie Moore was postponed today because of hurricane force winds.

Weather permitting, the 15-round bout will be held tomorrow night in Yankee Stadium. If weather conditions still are unsuitable, it will be held Friday.

Postponements are nothing new for Marciano. His second fight with Ezzard Charles was set back twice by rain last September. Then Rocky knocked out Charles in the eighth round.

Under State Athletic Commission rules, no new weigh-in is required for a one-day postponement. After a 48-hour delay, however, the fighters must be weighed again even if they are heavyweights who have no weight limit to make.

The odds were 3½-1 the undefeated Brockton strong boy would make Moore his 49th victim.

It was even money that Moore, stopped four times in his 19-year career of 144 fights (120-19-5), would not come out for the ninth round.

Despite the odds, the poised light heavyweight champion was as confident as ever he would become the oldest man to ascend to the heavyweight throne.

"I never was more sure of winning a fight and I will win this one," he said. "I think it will be by a knockout."

The 31-year-old heavyweight king is just as anxious to get in there with Moore as the veteran is to get his long sought crack at the title. Archie's needling campaign has stirred up the Brockton Blaster and his intimates say he is burning with a desire to crush the cocky challenger as quickly as possible.

Rocky never has been a shining star in his workouts, but for this bout he has looked tremendously impressive. The short-armed, heavy-thighed champ has displayed an assortment of fast, precision punches as well as the old reliable "Suzy Q"—a looping overhand right to the head.

Moore went through his paces in leisurely fashion, just working on his timing and accuracy. It was the same sort of preparation used by Jersey Joe Walcott, who won the title at the age of 37.

Moore is bucking two jinxes. No reigning light heavyweight champion ever has beaten a heavyweight ruler for the title. Seven have tried. Then, too, 12 previous challengers who attempted to win the title in Yankee Stadium were defeated. This corner strings along with the jinxes, picking Marciano to stop Moore within five rounds.

With one eye on the skies and with fingers crossed, promoter James D. Norris said that with a break in the weather he still was hopeful of a 50,000-55,000 crowd and a $750,000 gate. The advance sale had zoomed close to the $600,000 mark when lone reared her ugly head.

There will be no home television but the 15-rounder will be broadcast by ABC at 8:30 p.m., CST.

A closed circuit telecast will be beamed to 128 theaters in 92 cities and also will be piped to four veterans hospitals.

On an average of $3.50 a seat, the theater gate could go over the million-dollar mark, netting the International Boxing Club about $300,000 as its share. Radio brings in another $35,000. With everything figured in, Rocky may earn $400,000 and Archie $200,000.

Marciano expected to weigh 187 pounds, two lighter than he scaled when he stopped England's Don Cockell in the ninth round May 16. Archie planned to come in at 185 pounds, 1 more than he carried when he flattened middleweight

Linden McKinley Plays Here Friday

CHS Hopes To Avenge 1954 Defeat Against Strong Columbus Eleven

Circleville High School's Tigers, flushed with a 19-0 blanking of Athens, take on the rough Panthers from Columbus Linden McKinley here Friday night.

This will be Parents Night at the local gridiron, an annual tradition where parents of the players are introduced. They then sit along the sidelines to cheer their sons to hopeful victory.

Both CHS and Linden McKinley successfully protected their goal lines. The Panthers had only one touchdown scored against them as they drubbed Washington C. H. 25 to 7, a team CHS will meet here in the last game of the season.

The Tigers did have an Athens runner cross the goal line but the play was called back on a clipping penalty. Athens, in that instance, finally moved down to the CHS 12—but that was the farthest penetration the Bulldogs could make inside the CHS 30 all night.

CHS WILL HAVE to go all out against Linden McKinley if they hope for any kind of a victory. Although the Tigers may have looked much improved, Coach Steve Brudzinski warned that the boys made a number of mistakes which will have to be quickly corrected.

Al Garey will be back in the Linden lineup for the game here, according to reports, following a pre-season injury. CHS well remembers Garey for the fine all-around athlete almost single-handedly crushed the Tigers last year; he blocked a CHS punt, picked it up and ran for a touchdown and later grabbed a CHS pass after it had been tipped into the air and scored.

Last year, Linden grabbed an early lead and went on to win 30 to 13. Last Friday night, although the Panthers were victorious, there were indications that their defense was full of holes. Also, Linden fumbled five times.

Lane Definitely Leaving Chisox

CHICAGO (AP)—Frank Lane says he definitely has made up his mind to quit as general manager of the Chicago White Sox.

He will ask for cancellation of his contract, which has another five years to go, at a meeting with Mrs. Grace Comiskey, club president. The conference is expected within two or three days and Lane has asked that vice-president Charles Comiskey and other Sox directors be present.

Lane says his position with the Sox is untenable because of young Comiskey. "I told Mrs. Comiskey in a phone conversation Monday that I had suffered in silence at her son's sniping for five years," Lane said.

Ernie Banks Sets Grand Slam Mark

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Chicago's Ernie Banks is the new owner of the major league record for grand slam home runs in one season.

Banks' efforts were made in a losing cause last night as Rip Repulski's homer in the 12th inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 victory.

The 24-year-old shortstop from Dallas, Tex., couldn't be blamed if he secretly felt elated over the game. Only 10 other players in the game's history had clubbed four grand slammers in a season. The homer was his 44th of the season, his fifth grand slam.

TEXAS EASTERN SERVES THE COMPANIES THAT SERVE YOU

Natural gas fires this giant hydrogenation tower at Procter & Gamble's Port Ivory plant. This soap manufacturer is supplied natural gas by The New York and Richmond Gas Company, a customer of Texas Eastern.

Texas Eastern transports natural gas via pipelines from the Southwest for use at Procter & Gamble's Staten Island plant where famous Ivory soap is manufactured. In the production of this soap, natural gas is used to fire the giant hydrogenation tower from which hydrogen is recovered. Hydrogen is the element that preserves the purity of Ivory and gives the soap its needed body and firmness. Like many other products used in your home today, Ivory soap is more economically made because of an abundant supply of economical—efficient—and clean natural gas.

Horseshoe Pitching, Bait Casting Champions Announced For Fair

Results of the two "athletic" participation events at the recent Pickaway County Fair have been revealed.

Robert Wilkinson, of Circleville, won the senior division of the horseshoe pitching contest. George Estep, of Circleville, R.F.D., won the junior division. In the bait casting contest, T. E. Wilson, of Circleville, won the men's trophy. David Johnson, of Harrisburg, was first in the boys 15 and under division. The horseshoe pitching was inaugurated by a "mayors' match". Columbus Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, a Circleville native, teamed up with Circleville Mayor Bob Hedges to defeat a team of New Holland Mayor Joe Gooley and Williamsport Mayor Bill Johnson.

FOLLOWING that game, won in two straight, Sensenbrenner beat Hedges in a single contest.

Wilson, who is publisher of The Herald, won the bait casting competition with 22 points. His nearest competitor was Bud Harden, of Circleville, with 8 points. Harden won a tackle box as his prize.

Other awards included the following:

Charlie Glitt of Circleville, a 14-year-old, won the bait casting competition with 6 points; and John Stevenson, of Circleville, a 14-year-old, won the bait casting competition with 4 points.

First Baseman Trade Blamed By Greenberg

CLEVELAND (AP) — Inability to conclude a trade for first baseman Mickey Vernon of Washington cost Cleveland the American League pennant, Hank Greenberg said today.

The Indians' general manager estimated the Tribe probably would have won several games in front of the two behind the New York Yankees had the proposed deal gone through last June.

At the same time, Greenberg reaffirmed his complete faith in manager Al Lopez despite the club's recent slump.

"I think Lopez did a much more outstanding job this season than when he led the club to a pennant and a record-breaking 111 victories in 1954," Greenberg said.

The major handicap this season according to Greenberg was the team's inability to come up with a solid, everyday first baseman to fill in for the ailing Vic Wertz.

"I spent the better part of a week trying to persuade Clark Griffith (Washington owner) to trade Vernon. He was quite willing but he wanted a flock of our promising young ball players."

"We turned it down because we didn't feel it was a good gamble for a 38-year-old veteran who might help us only one year."

"Later, Griffith agreed to make the deal for only two of these men, Rocky Colavito and Joe Altobelli, but by that time Ferris Fain was available and we signed him."

Yankees Hoping To Nail Up AL Flag Friday In Boston

The Associated Press

Unless Hurricane Ione sends them sprawling, the New York Yankees figure they'll have the American League pennant in hand Friday at Boston.

Yet, it's possible the champion may not be decided until after Sunday's regular-season windup. All sorts of things can happen between now and Sunday, but basically, here's the situation:

1. Any combination of New York victories and Cleveland defeats totaling five gives the Yankees and Manager Casey Stengel their sixth pennant in seven years.

2. The Indians, with the world on a string just a week ago, must sweep their five remaining games and hope the Yanks lose three of their remaining seven to gain at most a tie for the title.

New York could clinch it as early as Wednesday night. To do it, the Yankees would have to sweep their three games at Washington while Cleveland drops a two-game set at Chicago.

The storm knocked out Monday night's game between the Yankees and Senators. Could be done will wash out the whole three-game

Farmers Reminded Now Is Time To Fumigate Stored Wheat

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Fumigate weevil-infested wheat before cold weather arrives. This is the advice of T. H. Parks, extension entomologist at Ohio State University, who urges farmers to examine wheat stored in farm bins at once for the presence of weevils. Parks says if the empty bins were not cleaned and sprayed in June, or the grain was not treated with weevil protective powder at harvest time, farmers may be in for a surprise. He points out the presence of two percent of weevil-damaged kernels per pint of wheat constitutes grain contamination according to federal food and drug rulings.

Also the presence of two rodent pellets per pint classifies it as unfit for milling into flour. Weevily and rodent-contaminated grain is subject to down-grading and can be sold only for livestock feed at a reduced price.

The Ohio entomologist reports some country elevators have already had carloads of wheat intercepted and rejected for milling because of such contamination. Chemicals sold for grain fumigation usually carry two or three carbon compounds and must be used at the proper dosage to be effective. For wooden grain bins this is six to eight gallons and for metal bins five to six gallons per 1,000 bushels of grain. To find the number of bushels in a bin multiply the cubic volume of the grain by 0.8.

Wheat fumigated before October 15 has an excellent chance of going through the normal storage period in good condition for milling, says Parks.

Beware of warm spots in the grain, warns the entomologist. During the winter, he says, weevils ball up in local areas and keep such grain warm. Turning the grain is all that can be done at that time as fumigants are ineffective in unheated rooms.

Farmers are becoming convinced in increasingly large numbers that drainage systems designed with deep-laid tile and fewer lines of laterals are the most economical systems.

Don Archer, Soil Conservation Service technician assigned to the Pickaway County Soil Conservation District, says that farmers tell him the best drained fields are those in which the tile sections are down 36 to 42 inches. At that depth, a spacing of 50 to 65 feet will do a better job than a spacing of 40 feet, when the depth is only 30 inches. "They are discovering that their fields have three dimensions," Archer says. "Length and breadth are determined by the size of the field, but the depth is determined by the location of the temporary water table, which will be only as deep as the tilling system."

This deeper tile has shown increased yields in every experiment designed to determine proper tile depth.

Ohio's milk production rose 11 percent in the past 10 years even though the milk cow population decreased 16 per cent during the same period, F. G. Richards, Ohio representative of the American Can Company, reported.

Improved feeding and dairying methods bringing about greater productivity per cow were advanced by Richards as one of the major reasons for the increased output.

The 5.8 billion pounds of milk produced on Ohio farms in 1954 helped set an all-time national record of 123.5 billion pounds, said the official of the can company which annually produces hundreds of millions of paper milk containers.

Ohio farmers shared in milk receipts totaling about $227 million, he added.

This national record, Richards said, was produced by twelve percent fewer milk cows than were on America's farms in 1944, when the cow population was at a record total of 25.6 million cows. However, Richards pointed out, the 22.4 million cows in 1954 produced an average of 5,512 pounds of milk each, almost a thousand pounds more than the 1944 cows.

Fruits that darken easily in canning, such as pears and peaches, should be placed in a salt bath of two teaspoons to one quart water, then rinsed before packing.

Marines To Man St. Louis Flagpole

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Stars and Stripes are flying again atop the old courthouse for the first time in about a year, thanks to the U.S. Marines.

The climbing of stairs 162 feet to the flag pole on the dome was regarded as too much for the elderly custodians of the building.

Lt. Col. John J. Jarvis, commander of the Marine recruiting service in the Federal Building, came to the rescue with a five-day-a-week flag raising detail which started Monday.

Jarvis said the Marines couldn't sit by while no flag flew over the building, and added that he doesn't want his men to get soft. "Those stairs, 162 feet up, why that's the best obstacle course downtown."

Convicted Slayer Gives Self Up

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Harvey John Collins, 29, a convicted murderer who broke out of the Pierce County Jail with six other inmates Sunday, gave himself up Monday night to Sheriff Harold Bird.

The capture of Collins left only three of the seven escapees still at large. Three were taken into custody Monday.

Collins was convicted of the Samuray sword slaying of a Tacoma motel operator last March. Police said he also admitted slaying two other persons.

Pulitzer Prize For Video Writers Urged By Producer

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Television producer Worthington C. Miner has petitioned the Pulitzer Prize Committee to establish special recognition for television writing, putting it on an equal footing with journalism and the drama.

Praising the encouragement television has given many fine creative writers, Miner told the committee that now "the pressure is already on . . . to buy them at a high salary to become adaptors of creative output, not the creators they have been." The chance of recognition with a Pulitzer Prize would reduce that "pressure," he said in effect.

What is this "pressure" on television writers, this talk of seductively high salaries as adaptors? Has Miner fallen for the old con line that America attempts to seduce its best creative writing talent with promises of bags of gold?

America may have destroyed some creative talent by ignoring it. But it has yet to be proved to my satisfaction that America ever has destroyed much talent by overpaying it, by offering it plush jobs.

A hack will always be a hack. But if a writer has something to say and is determined to say it he cannot be ruined by working in the gold mines of advertising or lecturing or Hollywood or television today any more than he ever was.

Yes, it would be fine if the Pulitzer Prize Committee recognized television writing. But the chance at a Pulitzer Prize never will prevent plenty of talented writers from trying for television gold.

Reider Snipes Anew At Gov. Lausche

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Former State Rep. Robert W. Reider, now a Port Clinton publisher, renewed his attack on Gov. Frank J. Lausche last night.

He told Democratic county chairman from Ohio's seventh district to choose an Ohio "Favorite Son" presidential candidate other than Lausche. "If Governor Lausche goes to Chicago as Ohio's 'favorite Son,'" said Reider, "it would sal the coffin in which he has placed the Democratic Party."

Among those he mentioned as a possible "Favorite Son" was Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, a former U. S. Secretary of Commerce. Commented Sawyer: "I have no interest in being a candidate for anything."

said, and has asked her for a divorce for some time. They separated Friday.

She is well known as George Gobel's television wife.
